

Pioneer Lines Expands Senior Leadership Team
Company adds industry veteran Tom Hurlbut as CFO

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DENVER, CO, May 13, 2021– Pioneer Lines today announced changes to its senior leadership team.

Thomas (Tom) Hurlbut has been named Chief Financial Officer. Hurlbut is a 30-year veteran of the railroad industry. He comes to Pioneer Lines from Norfolk Southern where he served in various roles including Vice President and Controller and interim Chief Financial Officer. Other positions included Vice President Audit and Compliance, where he oversaw the ethics and compliance program, and Assistant Vice President Network Planning and Optimization Profitability during the implementation of precision scheduled railroading. Tom replaces Carrie Genualdi, who retired earlier this month following a long career in the railroad industry.

Nate Henderson has expanded his role at Pioneer Lines to include Chief Commercial Officer in addition to his responsibilities of corporate development. In this role, Henderson brings 20 years of rail industry experience to lead the execution of the company's strategic growth initiatives, aligning commercial activities, industrial development, and acquisitions. Pioneer's business development team will now report to Henderson. These changes will better align customer needs with solutions to support new lines of business and growth.

Pioneer Lines CEO Alex Yeros said, "I'm thrilled to welcome Tom to the team and elevate Nate as we further expand Pioneer's leadership and capacity for growth. Our team of industry experts is focused on providing creative solutions for our customers that allow us to strengthen our franchise and contribute to the communities we serve. I thank Carrie for her valuable contributions to Pioneer and wish her well in retirement."
